GOOD TIME at 2017 Cannes Film Festival

The Hercules Film Fund proudly announces that "Good Time" will participate in the main competition of the 2017 Cannes Film Festival (May 2017).

"Good Time" is a drama directed by the critically acclaimed team of Joshua and Benjamin Safdie, and starring Robert Pattinson ("Twilight") and Jennifer Jason Leigh.

The picture was filmed in New York during 2016 and has been selected in the main competition ("Selection Officielle") in the upcoming 2017 Cannes Film Festival.

Good Time is expected to be released theatrically in the United States by A24 (producer and distributor of "Moonlight" the 2016 Academy Award winner for Best Picture) in late summer or early fall 2017. International sales were conducted by Paris based Memento Films International and the picture is already sold out in all international territories.

Hercules Film Fund is a special purpose fund initiated and supervised by Paris Kassidokostas Latsis. Its investment focus is to finance Independent Film productions, primarily in the US and Europe. The Fund investors include institutional funds and family offices. Until today, the Fund has financed several new motion pictures productions, including "American Made" (starring Tom Cruise) which is scheduled for release by Universal in September 2017, and "Unicorn Store" (starring and directed by Academy Award winner Brie Larson). Producers of the Hercules Film Fund financed motion pictures include Rhea Films LLC, run by Jean-Luc De Fanti and Terry Dougas.

Thanks to the support of our investors, we will continue with the same effort to pursue distinctions of our productions similar to this very honorable qualification of Good Time.
